

BENSALEM STUDENTS STAGE WONDERFUL "GYM" EXHIBITION

Annual Production Put On Before A Capacity Audience

WILL BE REPEATED Patriotic Theme Runs Through The Entire Program

By Jack Gill

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Mar. 20.—A capacity crowd of "first nighters" packed the school gymnasium last night to witness Bensalem High School's presentation of their ninth annual gymnastic exhibition. Hundreds of students participated in a continuous moving panorama depicting physical education in its various branches.

This year's show is called the "American Jamboree" and patriotism is stressed throughout the entire tableau. Directed by Miss Helen M. Smith and Norwood Wetherhold, the event is colorful as well as educational, particularly for the adult. It portrays the strides being made in physical education within the modern school system.

Kurtz King, superintendent of the Bensalem Township School District, delivered a short opening message to those in attendance. He cited the timelessness of such a program during a period when national leaders are emphasizing physical activity. "Both the participants and the spectators are deriving a benefit from tonight's exhibition," said Mr. King. He also took time to commend the teachers for volunteering their time and the students for putting the show across.

The exhibition itself is a colorful picture of physical education and games. Ranging from the little tots who took part in the skits to the high school students who handled the more delicate pieces, the panorama went off smoothly and satisfied the large gathering.

The opening parade featuring the star members of the cast was the curtain raiser. Led by a horse and Indians, the Queen of the fete was pulled in on a float and her attendants marched alongside. The girl scouts, first aid corps, the Army male and Navy goat, a boy in a small car with a rubber saving "ad" posted on front and the South American sisters attracted attention.

One of the most patriotic numbers on the program was the flag drill by forty seventh grade boys attired in white suits with red and white American shields on their sweaters. It was a thrilling sight for those interested in boys, as well as physical education to watch these healthy kids, who will be the men of tomorrow, waving flags in a fundamental drill. The act occupied the entire floor and was warmly received.

A "heads up" act saw the girls portray their part in the physical aspect of the evening in a tumbling act. As a finale, seven of the members of the cast lay on the mat while the remaining three took long dives over them. The girls on the mat kept their heads up watching for a possible miscue that never came. They all made it.

A couple of diminutive "Jitterbug Twins" from the lower grades put on a heated five session followed by a

SAFE IN AUSTRALIA

CROYDON, Mar. 20.—Private William A. Mutch, Jr., a member of the U. S. Army Air Corps, has cabled his father, William A. Mutch, that he has arrived safely in Australia. Private Mutch, who has been in service since July, was in training at Savannah, Ga., air base, prior to sailing "down under."

Statement of Major General Edward Martin

March 17, 1942

"Following my involuntary retirement from active combat service with the U. S. Army and my transfer to civilian defense work in Ohio, I decided to become a candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania. This decision was prompted by the demands of hundreds of Pennsylvanians who felt that my experience would be of great wartime value to this Commonwealth.

"I announced my candidacy feeling that my 44 years of Military service through the Spanish-American War in the Philippines, the Mexican border expedition of 1916 and the World War in France, as well as my civil training, qualified me to render service to my state in a great national emergency.

"Following my announcement, the tender of support from all elements of the party and from all sections of the state has been gratifying and encouraging.

"Last week I was approached by friends of Senator Davis who in the interest of Party harmony expressed the hope that a compromise candidate might be agreed upon if both Senator Davis and I withdrew from the race.

"Feeling as I do at this time when our boys in the armed forces are making a supreme sacrifice and the nation is engaged in an 'all out' war effort that no individual's future should interfere with the welfare of the Party, State or Nation, I readily agreed to withdraw if Senator Davis did likewise.

"I felt that this would be a wise move provided a com-

Cadets Are Busy As Beavers As They Check and Cross-Check Position

"FLIGHT TO TOKYO"

(Note: This is the second of two articles on an air and ground tour of the Army Air Corps Navigation school at Mather Field, Sacramento, Cal., for which special permission was given to the writer by the Chief of the Air Corps.—International News Service)

By Howard Waldorf (I. N. S. Aviation Writer)

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Mar. 20.—(INS)—We are aboard a twin-motor U. S. Army plane bound for Tokyo!

It is a simulated mission, as far as reaching that coveted objective is concerned, but all hands are carrying it out with the enthusiasm and technical detail of one to flatten the Japanese capital, for it is the final test for students at the Air Corps Navigation School at Mather Field, Sacramento, Calif.

Long before the finish of their 15-week course, any student can rattle off the Great Circle courses to follow and the distance—4508 miles from Sacramento.

Our plane is a Beechcraft monoplane officially known as an AT (Advanced Trainer)—7. The cabin is fitted with three desks, each equipped with the latest navigation devices and instruments.

In the roof of the cabin is a calibrated turret through which celestial observations are made. On one wall are duplicates of the pilot's flight instruments. On the other wall is a duplicate of the pilot's radio compass, a device for "homing" on radio stations. In the floor is a trapdoor for releasing flares. Across from the desks are oxygen tanks for high altitude.

First aboard were the two navigators. Then the two pilots. They had just come from a "briefing room" where they had received the latest weather reports for the projected mission.

A flight in a multi-place army plane manned by graduates of the vast training program always gives me an extra thrill.

Here's why: A year ago every member of this crew was in civilian life, on a job that had no connection with aviation. One navigator was in Kalamazoo, Mich. The others were in Chattanooga, Tenn. The chief pilot proudly draws he was in his home-town of Houston, Texas. The co-pilot was in Medford, Ore. Here we go.

We are climbing at 1,500 feet a minute and 140 miles an hour. Already the navigators are busily working out the courses, taking free air temperature and other readings to correct the variations of the various recording instruments.

One starts swinging a compass at his side by some mysterious routine he performs with a drift indicator, a strange looking device with a rubber eyepiece.

The other twirls away at the dials of the radio compass. Quickly, he selects a signal and centers the "homing" needle on his and the pilot's sets. It must be some distant commercial station because we have left the airways and are striking out on our own.

The plane levels off at 10,000 feet and the speed steps up to 180 miles an hour.

The navigators are busy as beavers, checking and cross-checking the position of the plane with the four methods of navigation.

Every couple of minutes one of the navigators hands the chief pilot a neatly written message which gives

UNUSUAL INSCRIPTIONS ARE BASIS FOR ADDRESS

Dr. George Emerson Barnes Speaks To Langhorne Sorois Members and Husbands

MUSIC IS ENJOYED

LANGHORNE, Mar. 20.—The first evening program of Sorois in many years to which husbands of members were invited, took place last evening in the library, 150 filling that building to capacity. So enthused were the husbands and friends with the function they were loathe to see the numbers close, and urged club members that more such programs be conducted.

Mrs. Frank Whittan, club president, extended a welcome, the group then listening to a program of music, and an address by Dr. George Emerson Barnes, pastor of Overbrook Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Barnes had as the subject of his unusual and interesting address, "Inscriptions," he telling of unusual inscriptions found during his world travels. The speaker is a graduate of Oxford University, England. He told of inscriptions to be found on tombstones, on cathedrals, public buildings of all types, and in many unusual places. He included many found throughout Europe, the United States, and other parts of the world.

Mrs. Bertie Sylvester, South Langhorne, sang as a solo one verse of "The Star-Spangled Banner," the club members singing the remainder and an address by Mrs. Ernest Gamble led. The latter also conducted choral group numbers by club members; after which, Mrs. Paul Vansant sang "The Spring" and a Scotch air, "Sallie." A duet by Miss Betty James and Ernest Gamble was "Will You Marry Me?"

A "community sing," led by Mr. Gamble, concluded with "God Bless America," after which refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. The program committee, of which Mrs. Lynn Harrington is chairman, had outlined the evening affair.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN (I. N. S. Staff Writer)

Exclusive—"Inside Kiernan" has solved the mystery of who threw the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder.

It was the bend who rubbed out cock robin.

We have only two cases remaining on our books.

(1) Who threw the paving blocks into Ed Flynn's courtyard?

(2) Who threw the ping-pong division of the war into Paul McNutt's backyard?

So far we have established beyond reasonable doubt that (1) Ed Flynn, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has a courtyard and (2) there are paving blocks in it.

The rest of the trail is blotched up with the hoof prints of professional and semi-catch-can posers.

But it is a clearer road than Case X which we have ticketed under McNutt et al, et cetera and et tu brute?

Mr. McNutt's department obviously has become the district 59 of the Federal Government.

Thought for the day: Have you a little courtyard?

If you have a house to rent, advertise it in The Courier.

Chinese Contact Japs

Chungking.—Chinese troops in Northern Burma today made contact with Japanese troops at four points along the Burma-Thailand frontier.

The Japanese made several attempts to cross the border. All were repulsed. British troops are now holding a line extending from the Sittoung River across the railroad to the coast north of Bassein.

Want Draft Act Revised

Washington.—Military authorities and war production officials, it was learned today, will ask Congress for sweeping revision of the draft act to make use of the reservoir of 11,800,000 men between the ages of 45 and 64, inclusive, who must register April 27 under Presidential order.

Under the present law, it was pointed out, there is no authority to make use of the men even for work in war industries.

Under the draft act, all men from 18 to 64 inclusive, are liable to registration. Men from 20 to 44 inclusive are liable for military service. But other than carrying out the registration of the 18 and 19 year olds and men from 45 to 64, the Army is powerless now to order them into the service or into factories.

Plan To Liberate Philippines

Melbourne.—Liberation of the Philippines from Japanese domination was revealed by General Douglas MacArthur today as the primary purpose of his assignment to Australia.

The newly-appointed head of United Nations forces in the Southwest Pacific was interviewed for the first time in Australia while on his way to field headquarters. He spoke briefly, but he sounded the keynote of his present and future plans in these words: "I came through and I shall return."

Bronzed and vigorous, General MacArthur made it clear that President Roosevelt had predicated the whole campaign upon a decision that the Philippines in their entirety must be freed as soon as possible.

"The President asked me," General MacArthur said, "to break through the Japanese lines and to proceed from Corregidor to Australia for the purpose of reorganizing American defenses against Japan. The primary purpose of this is the relief of the Philippines."

Delivery Date Set Here For Those Not Yet Receiving Cards

ASKED TO STAY HOME

All aliens of Bristol and vicinity, who registered during the recent alien registration period, and who have not as yet received their registration cards, will have such delivered to their homes on Sunday, according to an announcement made today by Postmaster Joseph P. Duffy.

Mrs. Duffy states that inasmuch as these cards are sent by registered mail and must be delivered to the addressee himself or herself, and to no one else, many have not yet received theirs, due to the fact they are at work each day.

It was because many cards are still in the local post office that the special delivery of such cards was arranged for Sunday next.

Therefore those who registered and who have not as yet received their cards are asked to remain at home on Sunday from 11 o'clock until the cards are delivered to them in person.

They are also asked to have the number of the card received in the previous registration ready when the mail carrier arrives, or the new card will not be delivered to them.

Almighty and Eternal God, we thank Thee for the support of thine everlasting arms, holding us up in the midst of trial, temptation and difficulty, even as Thy hand supported Peter as he walked across the water. Even as faith was necessary in the walking of Peter, just so is it necessary if we are to accept the support of thy hand in our earthly pilgrimage. Fill us with that faith, O God, that we might walk with Thee and for Thee in all that we do. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

EASTER OUTFITS: If you're blessed with a girl seven to fourteen years, then you'll want to buy her a new Easter dress from a group gathered lovingly for her selection. The Snellenburg Girls' Dept. (2nd fl.) is noted for its style variety in dresses for these younger girls who crave to look as interesting as older sisters. Lovely pastel dresses, not too juvenile, can be had this season at $3.95 and $4.95. The Jeep Jumpers and the suit dresses are particularly precious!

EXCLUSIVE KAY COLLIER is restricting the sale of her personally designed spring-weather suits with rayon crepe skirts and real butchers' linen jackets to Snellenburg's 2nd fl. College Corner of better clothes. All the models shown are originals, and are they swank! They sell at $14.95 and are sized from 9 to 15. And such luscious colors! Jackets are rather like cardigans, buttoning to high round necks, with new capped shoulders and three-quarter sleeves. Jackets contrast skirts for color, except some black and white checked skirts with black jackets. These black and whites are sized to 17. Jackets can be worn separately.

YOUR NEW FIGURE: Diet if you like, but in the meantime keep your own figure at its unexpected best with one of the most streamlined corsets to be had designs to fit every type of figure. The famous Miss Doan, "silhouette counselor," has planned to be in Snellenburg's unusually complete corset department (2nd fl.) for demonstration the week of March 23rd. Most of these Artists' Models have the famous detachable bra. They're just about perfect! Hurry down to get your Easter foundation—perhaps two—at present prices.

HER CONFIRMATION FROCK: How sweet you will want her to look for that important ceremony—confirmation—which will make her conscious of her nearness to God and her duty to help Him remake this old world! Just now her snow white confirmation dress and veil will be as important as will her bridal outfit later. Knowing a little girl's feeling in the matter, Snellenburg's keep an unusually wide assortment of such frocks in their Girls' Dept., 2nd fl. They are priced at $3.95 to $7.95, in sizes 7 to 14. Plan a trip to select one soon.

ROMANCE OF AIR POWER! Do you know that the first experiment for air travel occurred in 1875 B. C.? Neither did it! That up and coming Snellenburg Auditorium (3rd fl.) will show models of aircraft dating from the 5th century until the present. There will be two R.A.F. moving pictures, two from our own Army and Navy. Practically all the important posters used by the United States, Canada, Australia, England, China, Free French, etc., will be exhibited. There will be beautifully done murals, too. Air-minded or not (you will be!), you and yours can't afford to miss this showing from March 23 to April 4.

LITTLEST EASTER HATS: How darling they are! Can you remember your first one? Both youngsters (from 3 to 7 yrs.) and mothers will agree delightedly on the collection that the 2nd fl. Children's Dept. (not the Girls' Dept.) has gathered together for special Easter wear. Never have I seen such variety in style for girls so young. There are felts of all sorts to be had, with navy, rose, powder and red leading. There are darling straws with small bright flowers, and in so many shapes. Several prices, from $1.69 to $3.95.

NEWEST NOTE: "Scatter pins!" They're worn on lapels, and are they jolly! Of course, you may be conservative and stick to just one lovely pin upon your lapel, but to have three or five is to be right ahead of the times. These groups look like lobby displays. You may have a variety of dogs or a regular zoo, or even a collection of miniature pots and pans, or what not! Anything and Snellenburg's 1st fl. Jewelry Dept. has more odd pins than I can an orgy of trying on! Get yourself describe. Priced at 85c to $1.69, a Snellenburg bonnet!

FOOLISH BUT FLATTERING are many of the season's new hats. Moreover, they've a pleasing grace. Snellenburg's 1st fl. Millinery Dept. is noted for selecting hats which are first becoming and then smart. Patrons return again and again. This department's Easter display is one of the best in town—I know. I've had an orgy of trying on! Get yourself describe. Priced at 85c to $1.69, a Snellenburg bonnet!

There's no more interesting shopping season than the spring, nor is more exhilarating. Make a day of it! Here's to more than your money's worth! Faithfully, FAITH.

FALLSINGTON BOY WINS IN 118-LB. CLASS

Al Turner, scrappy little colored boy from Fallsington, won the New York Golden Glove championship in the 118-pound class by defeating Chet Vincel of Rome, N. Y., in the finals of the tournament held in Madison Square Garden, New York.

It was Turner's fourth New York victory. He won his opening bout by a knockout and then stopped Pat Patterson, of Savannah, Ga. In his third bout, Turner outpointed Tom Stenbach, of Buffalo.

By virtue of his victory, Turner will now represent New York in the inter-city bouts with opponents from Chicago.

Turner fought under the colors of the Diamond A. A. last summer when St. Ann's conducted amateur bouts. He at one time boasted of a record of nine straight victories here until he was beaten by Al Thomas, Philadelphia.

Bensalem Students Stage Wonderful 'Gym' Exhibition

South American group dance by the Social Dancing Club of the school. This concluded with a period of social dancing with girls in evening gowns escorted by boys attired in semi-formal apparel. It has been suggested quite often by national leaders that dancing play a part in the planned "Hale America" physical program.

"Westward Ho" provided the gathering with a handful of laughs as a group of forty-niners put on an old-fashioned square dance that had them rolling in the aisles. Another amusing sketch was the Gay 90's act that featured the girls in the old and new forms of mass exercise drills.

Other interesting parts of the show were the Indian Act, Apparatus Drills, Tumbling, Roaring Twenties, Indian Club Drill, Black and White Revue.

The Modern Ballet, Tabu and the various games. The Tabu performance was one of the best of the show with precision, costume and lighting effects making an indelible impression.

The grand finale was the Sports Tableau. Representing the boys were: football, Dick Mossbrook and Russ Adrian; basketball, Pete Everett and George Patterson; track, Postum, Ejds and Bob Gonover; baseball, Bill Lamb, Jim Roberts and Bud Fleming; wrestling, LeRoy Silcox and Warren Jester. The girls were represented in basketball by Doris Ely and Hazel Lamont; hockey, Doris Strubgaler and Eleanor Hughes; track, Margaret Cook; baseball, Vanhorn; drum majorette, Lois Lange and cheerleaders, D. Gonzales, Betty Postum and B. Paul.

The performance will run tonight and Monday and Tuesday. It was announced that the Friday show was nearly sold out with but a few remaining reserved seats available.

Bristol Sailor Tells Graphic Story of Experiences Aboard Destroyer at Pearl Harbor

climbed out onto the dry-dock, and dived into the bay." Like several others of his companions Nelson swam about 75 yards to shore, despite his wounds. He was taken to the Pearl Harbor hospital, where he remained until December 28th, then transported to San Diego, Cal., arriving there nine days later. He was a patient in the San Diego hospital until March 12th, being granted a leave from the hospital until April 1st.

Nelson states that he saw only one formation of Japanese planes, a small one; the other craft coming at the "Shaw" singly. "I presume that when I saw them formations had already been broken."

"When I reached the hospital, after my swim, all I wanted was a shower bath. The salt water had stung my burns and other wounds. I was in the shower when I fainted."

The Bristol sailor, who enlisted in the navy in May of 1936, has been in Hawaii since February of 1940. The "Shaw" on which he has been based, was built in Philadelphia. It had been located at Pearl Harbor sometime before the start of the war.

petent, able and courageous compromise candidate could be agreed upon and thereby avoid a bitter primary fight. This Davis refused to do.

"The State of Pennsylvania includes the very heart of this country's military and industrial effort. I am convinced that Senator Davis is not equipped to be the chief executive to lead and inspire this effort. On the basis of his past experience and public record as evidenced not only by his public statements, but by his vote—and his failure to vote—on important issues, it is self-evident that he is not qualified to govern this great State under the circumstances which exist today.

"After my visit to Washington, D. C., yesterday, I am resolved to go through with my own campaign, and I am asking my campaign manager to open headquarters immediately. From now until the polls close May 19, I will wage an active, aggressive and continuous campaign and I respectfully submit my record to the voters of Pennsylvania.

"Pennsylvania's next governor must be able to give this State a leadership which will result in a maximum of industrial productivity and an unqualified unity of effort on the part of every element, coupled with the adoption of measures designed to afford its citizens the greatest possible protection in both their factories and their homes. It will now be the responsibility of the voters to select the man whom they regard as best qualified to carry out these great tasks—to be the War Governor of the first industrial state of the Union.

"The die is now cast."

and any necessary changes in the course. This note is condensed from a maze of mathematics which almost covers the desks.

I have a marked chart in front of me and my mouth opens wider each time the plane passes over a check point.

The wind is howling at velocities up to 75 miles an hour and swinging half around the compass, but they are hitting all points on the nose. For instance, we are supposed to pass a small lake, and instead of possibly skirting one edge, we split it right in half.

This is all very amazing to this sky warrior of World War I, who navigated by the shiniest railroad tracks.

A slight accident increases my deepest respect for the job these lads are doing. I drop my pencil and by the time I have retrieved it the plane has flown 15 miles. Just five minutes! From then on I understood why navigators are so busy.

Night falls while we are still in the air and these lads increase their tempo. Out come the sextants and they start "shooting" their favorite stars. They pick out two and shoot each one ten times to strike an average, moving up the "fix" on their position report to keep pace with the speeding plane. A celestial observation takes about 15 minutes to compute and right on the dot they come up smiling, with the note for the pilot.

It takes but little imagination to change this training plane to a Flying Fortress boring through the night to Tokyo.

Above the roar of the engines I can almost hear the navigators calling: "Target coming up! Target coming up!"

And then the words of the bombardier, flat on his stomach in the nose of

And then the sight of the military targets of Tokyo bursting into flames and the bombardier calling out: "Bombs gone. Let's go home."

I snap out of it and look around sheepishly to discover my companions have been thinking the same thing.

With that we hit Mather Field on the nose, fingers of light suddenly stab out of the black below and we swish to a landing.

We have blasted Tokyo off the map.
